

'The Terrifying Village'

Once upon a time, there was a village which people called 'the terrifying village'. Long time ago there happened a crime. It was said that an old man, who was creaky, killed a woman. To kill her, he frequently observed her, he learned everything that woman said and did. In this village a night which people called the terror night was held. The old man committed his crime. It was horrible... The young woman screamed very high while the old man laughed. All the people heard that. Years later, a terrible agony invaded the old man who died because of the sadness. People know this story because the old man wrote a letter in which he apologized for everything he had done. Now, this village is abandoned. People think that the ghost of the woman still lives there.
