Long time ago, there was a village in an unknown place, where everything was strange. A few of scaring events that have changed the inhabitants life, had happened there.

There was a man living by himself in his old house. One night while he was reading, he heard somebody laughing in the darkness. Suddenly, the terror invaded him. He started screaming for help, but nobody could hear him. After that, nobody saw him again. His neighbours thought he had moved, but he hadn't, he had disappeared.

Now, everybody have learnt, that they have to be careful with everything, and if they see some rare movement, they will call the police.
